OSLC VISION STATEMENT

We are Curious in the Journey committed to humbly learn from God's Word, history, tradition and even other Christian churches to find points of light to guide us and keep us from stumbling as we make our way through the dark times.

We are Sacramental anchored in the promises of Baptism and Communion which remind us of Jesus' life, death, resurrection and return and the hope He brings to all of us.

We seek to be Kingdom Focused through the Bible, story, worship and relationships, we believe we will see Jesus healing and redeeming not just our community but also the world as He draws us unto Himself.

We wish to be Life Based more of a spiritual crossfit gym than a library or Google. We seek to explore and learn spiritual disciplines that we can apply to our life daily as we seek to follow Jesus.

Vision Statements are great - kind of, sort of, mostly - provided...

- 1) We know what they are
- 2) We understand what they mean
- 3) The Vision Statement reflects the reality of life and ministry
- 4) We apply them

OSLC's Vision Statement is a reflection of not only who we are, but who we strive to be because there is a theological tension between the two.

We are sinners in need of a Savior which is why we are always less than we should be. However, by grace God sees us as more than we are (or even dream of) because of the cross. And that is where the tension of our Vision Statement collides with the reality of our life in Christ and gives us hope and courage for our journey through this world.

Now comes the hard part - applying our Vision Statement to our ministry and life. The best news is - life is a journey and it happens one step at a time.

Pastor*
